On the week of our feast celebrations for St Rita, Sarah has prepared the newsletter editorial for your enjoyment and information...

FEAST DAY OF ST. RITA

Today our school celebrated the Feast day of St. Rita. As Shylah welcomed us to the Mass, she told us the ways in which St. Rita was a model of faith for our school community.

Faith is a value that our whole school body identified as being an essential part of who we are at St. Rita's School. Faith is the gift of trust, and the secure belief and trust in God and God's will. St. Rita is the patron Saint of impossible cases.

St. Rita was born in Italy. She married at age 12, with her parents arranging her marriage despite the fact that she repeatedly begged them to allow her to enter a convent. Her husband was a rich but quick-tempered man, who had many enemies in the region. St. Rita endured his insults for 18 years, and had two sons.

Toward the end of her husband's life, St. Rita helped convert him to live in a way that was kinder, and more faith filled. Although he lived with greater justice, his allies betrayed him, and he was violently stabbed to death. Before his death, he repented to St. Rita and the Church and she forgave him. After her husband's murder, her sons wished to seek revenge on their father's murderers. Knowing murder was wrong, she tried to persuade them from retaliating, but was not successful. She, instead, prayed to God.

After the deaths of her husband and sons, St. Rita desired to enter the monastery but was turned away, since although the convent acknowledged Rita's good character and piety, it was afraid of being associated with her due to the scandal of her husband's violent death.

However, she persisted in her cause and was given a condition before the convent could accept her; the difficult task of reconciling her family with her husband's murderers. She was able to resolve the conflicts between the families and, at the age of 36, was allowed to enter the monastery. She remained there until her death.

So the question for us is, in 2012 how do we relate this story to our lives? It may be that we take just a little extra time this week to connect with our faith, or that we try to practice greater patience towards others, that we take a risk and show courage, or forgive a past hurt. However it applies to you,

St. Rita is a wonderful starting point for inspiration.
Have a wonderful week ☺ Sarah (information sourced from Catholic Online)

Principal's Pen Feedback from a volunteer Contractor about St Rita's children....

Thanks Gavin,

There was one thing that I have not mentioned yet.

While we were down there many of the children in passing, thanked us while we were working for fixing their play equipment.

I just wanted to highlight that you and your staff are doing great work, for these children are grateful for what they have.

This shows the values they are learning at your school. These things never go un-noticed. You and your staff should be proud of the examples you are setting for the children of the next generation. Motivated people change the world. Keep up the good work!

BLACK DUCK WISDOM

By way of sharing some insights this week, I offer you an excerpt from a great little book called Black Duck Wisdom by Maggie Dent... enjoy

1st Wisdom: Personal Acceptance is Important and Valuable

"Ducks are happy being ducks. They do not question their life as a duck. Ducks do not wish they were owls, emus or eagles or anything else for that matter. Being a duck just 'is' and 'is' is just fine.

Humans often waste valuable moments in life wishing they were something different... maybe smarter, thinner, hairier, taller or richer. Deep personal acceptance of who we are is an important step to happiness in life. Once we accept who we are we can then aim to become the best 'us' we can be without wasting time and energy bring someone or something that we are not."

As a parent, I find myself often in chats with my children about the good, the bad and the sometimes ugly in all of us and that I love them 'just the way they are'. We can all be better in some way and it's good to aspire to become better – it's also good and healthy to accept who and what we are cause 'God made us just the way we are and God don't make no junk'. It is vitally important that parents help to instil into children an acceptance of themselves as they are and not always as we want them to be or what we never were or became.

Have a great week.

Gavin
